At Hinkson, I'm given the grace I need to grow as a teacher and a friend. With students, I have the freedom to be creative with my teaching. In fellow staff, I find supportive partners who share my same passion for international, Christian education.

- Caitlin O

I love the different cultures represented in my classroom. Each day is full of excitement and surprises. My favorite part of being a teacher at Hinkson is seeing the language improvement from the beginning to the end of the year.

- Courtney M

I serve at Hinkson, because God led me here and provided a position, finances, and the spiritual readiness to do his work. I can't think of a better way of leaving a positive mark on others' lives. Do you love your job as much as I love mine?

- Inna L

If you're willing to both teach and be taught, Hinkson is the place. The opportunities to minister to adults and students are plentiful, the staff and administration are passionate about their work and the community has been nothing but welcoming. I want to encourage the younger teachers especially. Do not be afraid of the support-raising or the big move abroad. There is not a better place to start than here!

Moscow, Russia has an active mission community that plants churches, reaches out to Muslim peoples, leads home groups, runs English ministries, and serves the deaf, homeless, and fatherless. In the middle of this community, there is Hinkson Christian Academy.

At Hinkson, we not only have the joy of enabling missions, but also the incredible privilege of educating and discipling students in a Christian worldview that celebrates a life of the mind. It is worthwhile. It is fulfilling. It could be for you!
